Background on:

Liz: grad in May Org readiness consultant Org development work Cheron Consulting group how she got into it: applied to a ton of places had previous experience with EOD office helped her get the job - need exp in field to get consulting job.

external consultant + she gets sent over to the company use relationships you build to get different jobs

org. readiness team have project managers who help organize themselves ppl like her develop the materials develop training for other teams for other projects certain members deliver training as well if advanced find another expert on training

How often SPSS is used: don't use it as a consultant already have eval form developed only does initial training + dev.

does company find projects for you? yes as you get more advanced you start selling yourself

What recommendations do you have for students in the program? finding field that interests you most + get experience in it brushing up interviewing, skills resume building research the crap out of interview build relationships with ppl outside job. tie what you did into their job you are applying for.
